Course Description

English 1A is the first course in SJSU's two-semester lower-division composition sequence; it provides an introduction to baccalaureate-level composition, with attention to the "personal voice" and personal experience, on the one hand, and the more formal attitudes and demands of writing at the university (expository and argumentative essays), on the other. Students will develop college-level reading abilities, rhetorical sophistication, and writing styles that give form and coherence to complex ideas and feelings.

College-Level Composition

While the development of college-level composition skills are important to our study, it is imperative to emphasize that such skills are only relevant to the content which they express and explore. Our goal this semester, in all that we do, from reading responses, to discussions, exercises, and essays, is to find and explore new ideas and insights about ourselves, and the world around us. College-level composition demands an exploration of the text, to self, to world mode of thinking and reflection. Therefore, our essays will be, on one level, personal in that they will be based on your experiences and observations; however, the essays will also be social and cultural as you-the writer- seek to connect your experiences to themes, concepts, ideas, and insights that transcend the "I" and enter the realm of the "us," the "we." What this all means is that I feel that my job as a college composition instructor is to foster the development of consciousness.

Course Goals

Students shall achieve the ability to write complete essays that demonstrate college-level proficiency in all of the following:

- Clear and effective communication of meaning.

- An identifiable focus, tailored to a particular audience and purpose (argumentative essays will state their thesis clearly and show an awareness, implied or stated, of some opposing point of view).
- The ability to perform effectively the essential steps of the writing process (prewriting, organizing, composing, revising, and editing).
- The ability to explain, analyze, develop, and criticize ideas effectively.
- Effective use within their own essays of supporting material drawn from reading or other sources.
- Effective organization within the paragraph and the essay.
- Accuracy, variety, and clarity of sentences.
- Appropriate diction.
- Control of conventional mechanics (e.g., punctuation, spelling, reference, agreement).

Student Learning Objectives

SLO 1: Students shall write complete essays that demonstrate the ability to perform effectively the essential steps in the writing process (prewriting, organizing, composing, revising, and editing).

SLO 2: Students shall write complete essays that demonstrate the ability to express (explain, analyze, develop, and criticize) ideas effectively.

SLO 3: Students shall write complete essays that demonstrate the ability to use correct grammar (syntax, mechanics, and citation of sources) at a college level of sophistication.

SLO 4: Students shall write complete essays that demonstrate the ability to write for different audiences.

Classroom Protocol

Participation is preparation and it is an inseparable component to learning. To participate means that you prepare and craft all out-of-class essays in conjunction with our in-class exercises and discussions. To participate means that you read all essays closely and carefully, and that you complete all reading responses—before you come to class. To participate means that you are on time and ready to work when class starts. To participate means that you make significant effort to respond to, process, and share insights to questions posed in class. To participate means that you take notes and complete all in-class exercises. To participate means that all of your actions work to create a distraction-free, safe, positive, and comfortable learning environment. To participate means that you adhere to all deadlines and due dates. To participate means that you maintain focus and effort for the duration of our class meeting. Finally, to participate means that you maintain this degree of intensity for the duration of the semester. The above criteria is my expectation for college-level learning, and you must make the decision and commitment to work in this fashion. However, you must make the decision, now and every day for the rest of the semester, to participate and succeed.

Note: Please use common sense when it comes to your personal electronic devices. You cannot fully participate in our class if you are engaging in any form of communication that deters, even momentarily, you from the task at hand. Notice that in the above discussion of participation does not leave room for texting and/or communication with or through an electronic device.

Assignments and Grading Policy

Grading: A-F. This class must be passed with a C (75%) or better to move on to CORE GE Area C3 and to satisfy the prerequisite for English 1B. A passing grade in the course signifies that the student is a capable college-level writer and reader of English. There is a total 1000 points possible, which follow the traditional percentage breakdown: 90-100: A; 80-89: B; 70-79: C; 60-69: D; 0-59: F.

Assignments (1,000 possible points)

• Out-of-Class Essays: (SLO 1,2,3,4) Essays 1-3 are worth 125 points, and essay 4 is worth 100 points. Throughout the course of the semester, you will compose 4 out-of-class essays. Essays will focus on different rhetorical modes, all leading to argumentation and persuasion. Our last essay will be a reflective essay. For each essay, you will be given a prompt with specific guidelines for the essay in terms of development and skills you will be applying to that essay. In addition, for each essay, you will attend a peer-response workshop, which requires you to have a completed, formatted rough draft of your essay. Failure to have a completed draft for the workshop results in a 25 point deduction from the final draft of your essay. All 4 out-of-class essays must be completed—and turned in on time-in order to be eligible to receive a passing score in the class. Essays #1 and #2 have the option of revision for improvement. Criteria for revision will be discussed and clarified in class at the appropriate time.

• In-class essays (SLO 1,2,3,4). 3 total. The first in-class essay is for diagnostic purposes only, and thus ungraded. Essays #1 and #2 are worth 50 points each. After we compose our diagnostic in-class essay, we will compose two additional in-class essays. Each essay will focus on a specific skill set and will utilize elements we have been working on with our out-of-class essays as well. Furthermore, these essays will prepare you for our final exam. You will be given a rubric to help determine how to approach these essays, and we will have some specific in-class preparation.

• Reading Responses (SLO4): 10 @ 10 points each. For 10 of the essays we will read this semester, you will compose a reading response. Reading responses are due in class immediately after they are discussed/used. The responses are designed to get you thinking about the reading before you come to class, strengthening your ability to complete the exercises for the day. If your response demonstrates care and concern for the task, it is worth full credit. If it shows a lack of care and concern, it is worth no points. I will help you better understand the expectations, but for now think of each response as about 30-40 minutes of thinking and writing. Reading responses will be between 1-2 pages, typed, and single spaced. Late or hand-written responses will not be accepted.

• Course Binder @ 100 points. Throughout the course of the session, you will be keeping and developing a course binder consisting of all in-class exercises. You will be numbering, dating, and keeping these exercises in your course binder. Keeping up your course binder is your responsibility. I strongly advise you to revise and clarify each exercise outside of class. Not only is this a good study habit, but it will help you process and retain what we have been working on, very important during summer session. See your schedule for when your binder is due.

• Letter of Introduction @ 25 points. Very early in the semester, you will be assigned a letter in which you will introduce yourself to your instructor. Of course, this assignment is to allow me to get to know you a bit, but it is also a chance for me to get to know your out-of-class writing a bit. If you do this assignment and meet the simple requirements outlined on the assignment sheet, you will earn 25 points. However, I want you to craft and compose what you consider to be your best sentence and paragraph level writing at this time. In addition, this assignment is part of how I assess the strengths and weaknesses of the class as a whole.

• Mandatory Departmental Final Exam (SLO 1,2,3,4): 200 points. On Saturday, December 7 we will compose our final exam, which will be an in-class essay. Basically our whole semester will prepare you for this task. I will inform you of the room number and time as soon as it is available to me. The final exam is mandatory, meaning that you must sit for the exam in order to be eligible to earn a grade in the course.

• Everyday Writer readings and exercises. You will be required to read a series of sections from The Everyday Writer. The purpose of these readings is to, first, generate familiarity with the writing handbook that will guide you through the remainder of your career at SJSU. In addition, you will read through a series of writing fundamentals. On scheduled dates (see our schedule) we will discuss and clarify “highlights” of the readings. It is important to note that it is your responsibility to be reading your handbook outside of class. These discussions will include exercises that will become part of your course binder. This will allow you to come by my office and talk about concepts and questions as they arise. If you put off this reading until the night before you are supposed to have it finished, you will NOT gain the intended benefits of this portion of our class. In the past, students have formed out-of-class study groups to meet weekly and discuss sections of this reading.

Late Work Policy

Out-of-class essays #1,#2, and #3 have a one class meeting grace period, meaning that, if something happens, you can turn in the essay at the beginning of the next class meeting for no point deduction. After that time, the essay will not be accepted. Remember, all 4 essays must be turned in on time, meaning between the due date and the grace period. There is no exception to this policy, regardless of validity or severity. Out-of-class essay #4 has no grace period and cannot be turned in late. In-class essays can be made up during office hours up to one week after the initial date, if prior arrangement of at least two class meetings is made. Reading responses cannot be turned in late. To repeat, there are no exceptions to any aspect of this policy, regardless of validity or severity. If you prepare and treat due dates as serious commitments, this will not be a problem for you. If you know that you will be missing a due date, you can turn work in early. I DO NOT ACCEPT ELECTRONIC SUBMISSIONS OF ANY WORK PRODUCED FOR THIS CLASS.

Promptness

There is a direct correlation between promptness, attendance, and success in this class. It is your responsibility to be on time and attend each class session. There will be something of record either due or to be done on nearly every day of class, much of which cannot be made up. Not only will your score suffer with poor attendance, but it is impossible to learn and develop if you are not on time, in class, and actively engaging and participating in the material.

SJSU Writing Center

The SJSU Writing Center is located in Room 126 in Clark Hall. It is staffed by professional instructors and upper-Division or graduate-level writing specialists from each of the seven SJSU colleges. Our writing specialists have met a rigorous GPA requirement, and they are well trained to assist all students at all levels within all disciplines to become better writers. The Writing Center website is located at <http://www.sjsu.edu/writingcenter/about/staff/>. One of the purposes for our diagnostic essay will be for me to determine which students will benefit from services offered at the Writing Center.
