As a community college studio art professor in charge of advising and helping students, I've seen many highly talented students in art rejected from this program due to the GPA requirements. Allowing students to submit drawings to help bump their GPA would be more equitable to students who have different learning and assessment styles than traditional grades as well as to underrepresented students who have not had the same opportunities as more mainstream populations. Best, Rebecca Alex Rebecca Alex, M.F.A. We appreciate your feedback in this process. Thanks again, Jennifer Sclafani
