

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE

Writing Exercise 5

Due: Tues, 9/18

Reading: Read Hacker, Section A2, "Constructing Reasonable Arguments"
Bring SoL & "Hip Hop" to class

Writing Exercise:

You have been discussing, thinking about and witnessing consumer culture as it manifests in people's appearances. We've read 3 different essays on this consumer culture and have come to some interesting conclusions. For this exercise, you need to write a letter to a friend discussing your ideas on consumer culture. Refer to your earlier writing exercises for details, evidence and ideas. What is it that you would like to tell your friend? Create a letter that is informative and analytical. Avoid simply summarizing events or essays. In other words, use your critical voice!!

You may not let your friend know that this letter is an assignment. This means that you have to figure out how to keep your reader interested and engaged throughout the letter. How are you going to draw him or her into your thoughts and arguments? How will you keep your friend from stopping midway through the letter? (Be creative!) Though this is a letter to someone you know, please use proper language, grammar and citation methods.

This assignment needs to be turned in (as usual) at our next class meeting, AND you need to email the letter to your friend (before our next class meeting)! Add my email as a recipient to the letter. For each day that you do not email, you will lose a grade step on the final draft of this essay.

Page Length: 600 words

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE

Writing Exercise 5

Due: Tues, 9/18

Reading: Read Hacker, Section A2, "Constructing Reasonable Arguments"
Bring SoL & "Hip Hop" to class

Writing Exercise:

You have been discussing, thinking about and witnessing consumer culture as it manifests in people's appearances. We've read 3 different essays on this consumer culture and have come to some interesting conclusions. For this exercise, you need to write a letter to a friend discussing your ideas on consumer culture. Refer to your earlier writing exercises for details, evidence and ideas. What is it that you would like to tell your friend? Create a letter that is informative and analytical. Avoid simply summarizing events or essays. In other words, use your critical voice!!

You may not let your friend know that this letter is an assignment. This means that you have to figure out how to keep your reader interested and engaged throughout the letter. How are you going to draw him or her into your thoughts and arguments? How will you keep your friend from stopping midway through the letter? (Be creative!) Though this is a letter to someone you know, please use proper language, grammar and citation methods.

This assignment needs to be turned in (as usual) at our next class meeting, AND you need to email the letter to your friend (before our next class meeting)! Add my email as a recipient to the letter. For each day that you do not email, you will lose a grade step on the final draft of this essay.
