

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.

ESSAY 1: YOUR CONSUMER LIFE
First Draft (email & 1 copy to class)
Due: Tues, 9/25

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections C2

First Draft (Middle Section):

We've been discussing the idea of consumer culture for the last three weeks. You've written about your role in consumer culture, observations/analyses of others in fashion trends, summaries of essays critiquing consumerism and the impact of signs on an individual's portrayal. You've also read three essays in which each author uses semiotic analysis of various products to argue his/her ideas.

For this first draft, review all of your writing exercise, including your Letter to a Friend. You have an opinion about consumerism and popular culture. What is it? What exactly did you see when you observed other students? Why must you walk through unnecessary items in a store to find the necessary items? What role do you play in consumer culture? And, finally, is it an overconsuming culture? Who is part of it? Who causes it? Is it a bad thing? Is it healthy?

In your journal, brainstorm on these questions before you proceed to your first draft. When you finish brainstorming, start to gather your ideas into clusters in your journal. Create a specific argument that deals with the topic: Is contemporary culture too concerned with consumerism? You may use your personal experiences, but that is the only part of your essay that should contain "I." Type your thesis statement at the top. Then, draft the middle of your essay. Don't worry about the introduction and concluding paragraphs yet. (We'll get to those later.) Bring 1 copy to class on Tuesday for Group Workshop and email 1 copy to me by 1pm Tuesday.

Evidence:

To support your argument, use any evidence that you've collected in your last 5 writing exercises (description, analysis, personal experience, readings).

Page Length: 800 words (minimum)

Administrative Notes:

- ▶ This assignment needs to be typed, double-spaced with one inch margins.
- ▶ Type your name, the date and First Draft, Essay 1 on your written assignment.
- ▶ Type your name and the page number in the upper right corner of every page.
- ▶ Give this exercise an original title (of your creation).
- ▶ Staple the pages together. (DO NOT FOLD OR PAPERCLIP YOUR PAGES.)
- ▶ Proofread everything before you turn it in. There should be no spelling or typographical errors.