Course Description

Writing skills for majors in political science. Basic materials; research; memos and research reports, press releases, analyses of political/electoral behavior, political speeches.

This workshop is designed for political science majors. It guides students in developing a writing practice focused on organization, analysis, sentence fluency, voice, and word choice. Course assignments allow students to craft useable pieces of writing, including a scholarship application and a short research report. This work will prepare students for professional writing in political science-related careers and require that students become familiar with the basic aspects of academic research and writing. Each assignment will be resubmitted after deep revision. Course readings will introduce students to the stages of revision and to various theories of composition. As background materials to guide the writing process, the readings can help jumpstart writing sessions and guide students through moments of potential frustration. Student success in this course will be based on consistency and improvement in composition over the course of the term.

Course Format

This is a hybrid online course (an online course with a synchronous component). All of your work in this course will be done using Zoom or Canvas. You will need to have regular access to Canvas and Zoom and a stable internet connection to be successful in this course.

Course Goals and Learning Outcomes

This course fulfills the Written Communication II (Z) General Education requirement. Student success in this course is dependent on an active engagement with the research and writing process. The primary goal of the course is for students to develop their own critical writing process. By the end of the course, students will be able to craft short pieces of writing (a scholarship application and a literature review) as well as a longer research paper that incorporates revised elements of the shorter assignments. Students will learn tools for deep revision and to properly cite primary and secondary sources.

General Education/Course Learning Outcomes:

- GELO/CLO 1: Students shall be able to produce discipline-specific written work that demonstrates upper-division proficiency in language use, grammar, clarity of expression.
- GELO/CLO 2: Students shall be able to explain, analyze, develop, and criticize ideas effectively, including ideas encountered in multiple readings and expressed in different forms of discourse
- GELO/CLO 3: Students shall be able to organize and develop essays and documents for both professional and general audiences.
- GELO/CLO 4: Students shall be able to organize and develop essays and documents according to appropriate editorial and citation standards.
- GELO/CLO 5: Students shall be able to locate, organize, and synthesize information effectively to accomplish a specific purpose, and to communicate that purpose in writing.

Department/Program Learning Outcomes:

The Department of Political Science has the following goals in mind for this course:

Breadth Students should possess a broad knowledge of the theory and methods of the various branches of the discipline.

Application and Disciplinary Methods Students should be able to formulate research questions, engage in systematic literature searches using primary and secondary sources, evaluate research studies, and critically analyze and interpret influential political texts. Students should be able to apply these techniques to identify, understand, and analyze domestic and international political issues and organizations.

Communication Skills Students should master basic competencies in oral and written communication skills and be able to apply these skills in the context of political science. This means communicating effectively about politics and/or public administration, public policy, and law.

Citizenship Students should acquire an understanding of the role of the citizen in local, state, national, and global contexts and appreciate the importance of lifelong participation in political processes.

Required Texts/Readings

William Zinsser, On Writing Well (30th Anniversary Edition) ISBN 0060891548

All other required readings are posted on Canvas.

Course Requirements, Assignments, Grading Policy

This course requires that students write a minimum of 8,000 words per semester.

Written Responses (~2000 words) (GELO/CLO 2, 3, 4)	20% of course grade
Discussion Posts (~1000 words) (GELO/CLO 1, 2, 5)	15% of course grade
Grammar and Participation Exercise (GELO/CLO 1)	10% of course grade
Personal Statement (~1000 words) (GELO/CLO 3)	15% of course grade
Research Proposal (~1500 words) (GELO/CLO 4 and 5)	15% of course grade
Research Paper (~5000 words) (GELO 1, 2, 3, 4, 5)	25% of course grade

Discussion Posts

Students will post responses to discussion questions to the board and respond respectfully to other students. This is a brave place for us to think critically about our own writing and to learn from our peers. See Canvas for topics and deadlines.

Written Responses

This part of your course grade is based on the quality of short written assignments (1-3 pages each), including reading responses and reflections. See Canvas for details.

Grammar and Participation Exercises

These assignments are Credit/No Credit tasks designed to get you thinking critically about your writing. See Canvas for details and deadline.

Scholarship Application/Personal Statement

This project begins with the “what is political science” essay and resume workshop, but will also require students to research scholarships and grants for which they may be eligible, and to craft an application using a personal statement. Most of these applications will require that the student outline their relationship to the field. Students should use this assignment to draft a useable piece of writing with which they might secure scholarships and grants. Potentially helpful websites include: <http://www.sjsu.edu/polisci/scholarships/> and <http://www.sjsu.edu/faso/Scholarships/>.

Research Proposal

This assignment is comprised of three parts: a research proposal, a literature review, and a bibliography. Each aspect of the assignment will build on the previously submitted assignments and should reflect deep revision. The research proposal should outline the student’s interest in the subject, its significance for the study of politics, and situate the work in relation to relevant scholarly literature. This assignment will eventually be incorporated into the introduction of the research paper.

Research Paper

This assignment should be 15-20 pages and take the form of a traditional research paper. Students will submit multiple drafts for feedback over the course of the semester. The final assignment will be graded on an adherence to the conventions of writing.

Grading Information and Policies

This course must be passed with a C or better as a CSU graduation requirement.

No extra credit is available.

University Policies

Per University Policy S16-9, relevant university policy concerning all courses, such as student responsibilities, academic integrity, accommodations, dropping and adding, consent for recording of class, etc. and available student services (e.g. learning assistance, counseling, and other resources) are listed on the Syllabus Information web page (<https://www.sjsu.edu/curriculum/courses/syllabus-info.php>). Make sure to visit this page to review and be aware of these university policies and resources.

You do not have my permission to post or distribute my lectures in any way.

Please review the information about university policies on plagiarism, which may result in a failing grade. Faculty members are required to report all infractions to the office of Student Conduct and Ethical Development.

Success in this course is based on the expectation that students will spend, for each unit of credit, a minimum of 45 hours over the length of the course (normally 3 hours per unit per week with 1 of the hours used for lecture) for instruction or preparation/studying or course related activities including but not limited to internships, labs, clinical practica. Other course structures will have equivalent workload expectations as described in the syllabus.

Classroom Protocol

Students should attend all class meetings and participate in class exercises. Please be respectful of your colleagues in class discussions and during peer review exercises. Discussion board discourse should always be professional, respectful, and even generous in this writing community.

If you have to miss class for any reason, you are expected to view any recordings in the relevant modules to get caught up. I will not record the workshops themselves, but I may record portions of the class when I explain upcoming assignments. Any videos remain protected by the instructor's copyright, and students are prohibited by university policy (S12-7) from recording, distributing, or posting any part of these videos. Students who violate this policy can be referred to Student Conduct.

You are required to use your full name as your Zoom name and there will be days of discussion when you will want to have your camera on. Consider sitting in front of empty wall space to minimize distractions for others when you are on camera. Be professional in choosing your background. Please do your best to also minimize background noise. You will always be on mute by default. Note that I can see all "private" exchanges in the chat feature of Zoom and that they become part of the official transcript of the class. Finally, always be respectful of your colleagues during class discussions.

Political Science Departmental Writing Policy and SJSU Writing Center

Students of political science should develop the ability to write in clear, grammatical English. Spelling and grammar count. Students must take care that appropriate citations are used. Direct quotations must be so indicated with quotation marks and a specific reference to the page in the source from which it was taken. Failure to cite your sources constitutes academic misconduct which carries with it serious sanctions. A tutorial on citations is available at the library website at http://www.sjlibrary.org/services/literacy/info_comp/citing.htm.

For assistance with writing, please see me or visit the SJSU Writing Center located in Clark Hall, Suite 126. In addition to one-on-one tutoring services, the Writing Center also offers workshops every semester on a variety of writing topics. To make an appointment, visit the Writing Center website at <http://www.sjsu.edu/writingcenter>.
