PRIVACY RIGHTS OF STUDENTS

The Federal Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 [also commonly known and referred to as The Buckley Amendment (20 U.S.C. 1232g)], regulations adopted thereunder (34 C.F.R. 99), et. seq., set out requirements designed to protect and govern the privacy of parents and students as well as access to their records by third parties as maintained by the institution.

In brief, the law indicates that an institution must provide students access to official records directly related to the student and an opportunity for a hearing to challenge such records on the grounds that they are inaccurate, misleading, or otherwise inappropriate. The right to a hearing (through the Student Fairness Committee in accordance with SJSU policy S14-3) does not include any right to challenge the appropriateness of a grade as determined by the instructor; however, the student may use this process to verify that the grade given by an instructor has been properly transmitted into the student's record.

The law generally requires that written consent of the student be received before releasing personally identifiable data about the student from records to other than a specified list of exceptions. The campus is authorized to release public directory information concerning students. Under the law, directory information may consist of the student's name, ID number, address, telephone listing, email address, date and place of birth, photo, major and minor fields of study, participation in officially recognized activities and sports, weight and height of members of athletic teams, dates of attendance, degree and awards received, and the most recent previous educational agency or institution attended by the student. IT SHOULD BE NOTED, HOWEVER, THAT SJSU POLICY ON DISCLOSURE OF STUDENT INFORMATION IS MORE RESTRICTIVE THAN THE LAW. The above designated information is subject to release by the University at any time unless the student has restricted the release of directory information through the task function under personal portfolio in my.sjsu.edu or if the University has a written objection on file from the student specifying information that the student requests not be released. Written objections should be sent to the Office of the Registrar.

For students who are Unit 11 employees, directory information includes name, address, enrollment status (undergraduate vs. graduate, part-time vs. full-time), department employed, telephone number, email address, and student employee’s status as student employee. Directory information may be used by the University for the development of campus programs and for Counseling and medical records are regulated strictly under applicable California and Federal Law (as well as by some licensing agencies) and if used for treatment, they are maintained separately from educational records. Law enforcement records that are maintained separately from other educational records generally are not considered education records. For more information, please contact Counseling and Psychological Services, the Student Health Center or the University Police Department, respectively.

If you would like a copy of the University’s Policy on Educational Rights, Privacy and Control of Student Records Information, which conforms to the requirements of the Law, please contact the Office of the Registrar.
