Both Parties agree on outcomes:
Facilitator drafts a written agreement that details the agreed-upon outcomes and sends a copy to each Party for their review and signature. If both Parties sign the agreement, its terms become effective immediately.
The Title IX Office maintains a copy of the Agreement and monitors compliance. The matter is closed and cannot be pursued via the formal resolution process.

Both Parties do NOT agree on outcomes OR either Party declines to participate further in the process:
Informal Resolution ends and the formal resolution process (investigation, potential hearing, and optional appeal) begins.
If Complainant does not wish to proceed with the formal resolution process, Complainant may withdraw their Formal Complaint at any time, thus halting the formal resolution process.

Both Parties want to pursue Informal Resolution
Complainant has submitted a Formal Complaint, a Notice of Allegations has been sent to both Parties, and both Parties have agreed to participate in the Informal Resolution process.*

Written agreement to participate
Both Parties sign a consent form acknowledging they understand their rights and agree to participate in the Informal Resolution process.

Facilitator meets with Complainant
A trained Facilitator meets with Complainant (and their advisor if applicable) to understand their desired outcomes.

Facilitator meets with Respondent
Facilitator meets with Respondent (and their advisor if applicable) to see if they agree with Complainant's desired outcomes, whether Respondent wants to alter any of the proposed outcomes, and/or whether Respondent disagrees with any/all of the desired outcomes.

Additional meetings, if necessary
Facilitator continues to meet with Complainant and Respondent (and their advisors) separately to see if they can work toward mutually agreeable outcomes.

* SJSU maintains discretion to determine whether a matter is appropriate for Informal Resolution.
 Complainant and Respondent never have to see or directly communicate with each other throughout this process.
 At any point during the Informal Resolution Process, either Party may decide to stop the Informal Resolution Process and initiate the formal resolution process.
